Dear Varjak Paw,

I am writing to advise you on the reasons why you should listen to your Elder Paw's advice and leave the Contessa's house immediately. There is no time to waste for the situation could quickly escalate into a dangerous or potentially deadly one so now is the time to leave! Do you want your family's lives to be put in danger?

It is important for you to remember that Elder Paw is the head of the family and tradition tells you that it is the leader you ought to follow. Has Elder Paw ever let you down before? Until now, Elder Paw has led the family with great success. He is a trustworthy and wise guide, who has ordered the family to leave for he senses danger. Take his advice because he has spoken and his word is final!

The facts show that the Contessa is dead as her room is completely empty. You were the one who saw the stranger leave the house carrying boxes. It is very likely these were the Contessa's belongings. You do not know where she is nor do you know whether she will be back. What you do know is that she is gone and it is time to go too!

I am deeply concerned about the reaction your father gave when Elder Paw called the Family Council meeting. His behaviour was a disgrace to all Mesopotamian Blues so I do not believe you should follow this poor example. What do you think Jalal would have done in this situation? You have the spirit of Jalal flowing through your veins. It is time for you to have an adventure so that you and your family will be protected.

In conclusion, it is vital that you heed the warning Elder Paw has given and leave the Contessa's house without delay! The future of Mesopotamian Blues depends on it. I hope to hear a reply from you soon.

Yours Sincerely,

Agony Aunt Mog
